Course Description

Toxicology for Prosecutors will provide an overview of the pharmacology and toxicology of alcohol, an in-depth look at the current certified breath test machine used in Indiana. This course will be most beneficial to prosecutors and deputy prosecutors that handle Operating While Intoxicated cases.

Dr. Peter Method of the Indiana State Department of Toxicology will discuss the pharmacology and toxicology of alcohol, including the different types of alcohol and alcoholic beverages; how the body absorbs, metabolizes and eliminates alcohol; and how alcohol consumption affects the body. Dr. Method will also speak about the approved method for the BAC Datamaster.

The curriculum closely follows the required training given to certified breath test operators in Indiana. In addition, this course will provide instruction on the necessary evidentiary foundation for admitting breath and blood alcohol test results into evidence. This seminar will give prosecutors and deputy prosecutors a foundation in the toxicology of alcohol and the science of breath testing necessary to effectively present evidence in an OWI case.
